

This is my personal recommendation for Adam Tomlinson. I had the pleasure to work with Adam during his tenure at Garland and always found him to be very attentive, responsive, well organized and honest.

Besides being a joy to work with, Adam is clearly customer service focused which resulted in great communication and gave me the peace of mind that my project would meet my client's needs regardless of the twists and turns along the way.

I was able to entrust Adam to be the interface between the manufacture, architect and contactor for all of my needs including scheduling, details, installation, inspections and problem solving. He kept me constantly updated with the progress of drawings and material as well as correspondence.

In addition to the revenue gained from his presentations, Adam's industry knowledge and product expertise displayed in virtual presentations, technical articles, a published industry article and client meetings helped hundreds of our representatives and their architects specify the proper product and installation procedures. He was also instrumental in teaching our representatives and their clients about proper detailing and product specifications.

I highly recommend Adam for employment. He is a team player and would make a great asset to any organization.
